

An aerial photograph of Tartu, Estonia, featuring the Tartu Art School building as the central focus. The building is a large, multi-story structure with a reddish-brown facade and a dark roof. It is surrounded by lush green trees and other residential buildings. The scene is captured during the golden hour, with warm sunlight illuminating the buildings and trees, creating a soft, golden glow. The sky is a mix of blue and orange, with wispy clouds. A dark, diagonal overlay covers the top-left corner of the image. In the background, a tall chimney stack is visible on the horizon.

Tartu Art School

An aerial photograph of a town during autumn. The trees are in various shades of orange, yellow, and brown. In the foreground, a church with a tall steeple and a blue roof is visible. The town extends into the distance, with a river or stream winding through it. The sky is a pale, hazy blue.

1. Tartu

About the city that we take inspiration from

An aerial photograph of Tartu, Estonia, showing the Emajõgi river winding through the city. A prominent tall, red-and-white striped chimney stands in the middle ground. To the right, a modern, curved white building is visible. The foreground shows a bridge crossing the river and a parking lot. The background is filled with dense urban development and green spaces.

A group of approximately 18 students, both men and women, are posed in two rows on a grassy area. They are wearing traditional Estonian folk costumes, including white blouses with puffed sleeves, floral vests, and red and blue striped skirts. The front row is kneeling or sitting, while the back row is standing. They are holding a long banner that features a stylized white cross on a blue and red background. The banner text reads "TARTU KUNSTIKOOLI NOORTERÜHM". In the background, the large, dark wooden hull of a ship is visible, surrounded by green trees. A tall wooden pole stands to the right, and a few other people can be seen in the distance under a blue tent.
